Dear Jane Henney,

I ask that you ~~call~~ ¹⁰³⁻⁰⁰²²⁰⁰¹ antibiotics, used to treat human illness, from livestock feed.

I am certain you understand the concern about reduced effectiveness of such drugs when overused. It is my understanding that improved care of livestock would reduce the need for antibiotics in livestock feed.

A further concern: when I phoned your office to express the above opinion, I was told I could fax or e-mail my opinion or write a letter, but not express it by phone. Letter-writing is surely more labor intensive than using e-mail or sending a fax. Not accepting phoned opinions may cut down on the number that you receive and that would be too bad.

Thank you for your attention.
